MUR # 6003

To Whomever Is Concerned,

According to the article written by Mathew Mosk of The Washington Post on March 21, 2008, (http://blog.washingtonpost.com/the-trail/2008/03/21/mccain_blow_by_public_spendin.html) reports filed on the previous day (March 20, 2008) show that Sen. John McCain has officially broken the $54 million dollar spending limitation imposed by the presidential public financing system upon primary bid spending by $4.4 million for an illegal total of $58.4 million. This violation follows in spite of the fact that Federal Election Commission Chairman David Mason did not grant McCain's Feb. 6 request to withdraw from public matching program.

Consequently, I, Isabel Perkins, require that The Federal Election Committee and officially investigate Arizona Senator John McCain of 241 Russell Senate Office Building, Washington D.C., 20510 for purposes of violations of FEC laws limiting campaign spending.

If you have any questions, you may contact me at telephone number _____

2008 APR 28 P 5:33

To Whom It May Concern:

According to a March 24, 2008 news on boston.com, website of The Boston Globe, and also according to the article written by Mathew Mosk of The Washington Post on March 21, 2008, (http://blog.washingtonpost.com/thetrail/2008/03/21/mccain_blow_by_public_spending.html) reports filed on the previous day (March 20, 2008) show that Sen. John McCain has officially broken the $54 million dollar spending limitation imposed by the presidential public financing system upon primary bid spending by $4.4 million for an illegal total of $58.4 million. This violation follows in spite of the fact that Federal Election Commission (FEC) Chairman David Mason did not grant McCain's Feb. 6 request to withdraw from public matching program.

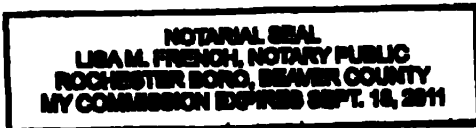

Consequently, I, Michael M. Neely, demand that The Federal Election Committee officially investigate and prosecute Arizona Senator John McCain of 241 Russell Senate Office Building, Washington D.C., 20510 for purposes of violating FEC laws limiting campaign spending. Such violation is a felony offense and, therefore, it is incumbent upon the FEC to take immediate action on this matter since Senator McCain is a candidate for the highest office in the land and the United States of America would be greatly harmed if a felon were to enter that office.

If you have any questions, you may contact me at the above. Thank you.

Without Prejudice,

Signed and sworn to before me this 22 day of April, 2008.

To Whomever Is Concerned,

According to the article written by Mathew Mosk of The Washington Post on March 21, 2008, (<http://blog.washingtonpost.com/the-trail/2008/03/21/mccain-blows-by-public-spending.html>) reports filed on the previous day (March 20, 2008) show that Sen. John McCain has officially broken the $54 million dollar spending limitation imposed by the presidential public financing system upon primary bid spending by $4.4 million for an illegal total of $58.4 million. This violation follows in spite of the fact that Federal Election Commission Chairman David Mason did not grant McCain's Feb. 6 request to withdraw from public matching program.

Consequently, I, Maria Nikolopoulos, require that The Federal Election Committee and officially investigate Arizona Senator John McCain of 241 Russell Senate Office Building, Washington D.C., 20510 for purposes of violations of FEC laws limiting campaign spending.

To Whomever Is Concerned,

According to the article written by Matthew Mosk of The Washington Post on March 21, 2008, (http://blog.washingtonpost.com/the-trail/2008/03/21/mccain_blows_by_public_spendin.html) reports filed on the previous day (March 20, 2008) show that Sen. John McCain has officially broken the $54 million dollar spending limitation imposed by the presidential public financing system upon primary bid spending by $4.4 million for an illegal total of $58.4 million. This violation follows in spite of the fact that Federal Election Commission Chairman David Mason did not grant McCain's Feb. 6 request to withdraw from the public matching program.

Consequently, I, Gary Jay Neuger, require that The Federal Election Committee officially investigate Arizona Senator John McCain of 241 Russell Senate Office Building, Washington D.C., 20510 for purposes of violations of FEC laws limiting campaign spending.

If you have any questions, you may contact me at telephone number _____

To Whomever Is Concerned,

According to the article written by Mathew Mosk of The Washington Post on March 21, 2008, (http://blog.washingtonpost.com/the-trail/2008/03/21/mccain_blow_by_public_spendin.html) reports filed on the previous day (March 20, 2008) show that Sen. John McCain has officially broken the $54 million dollar spending limitation imposed by the presidential public financing system upon primary bid spending by $4.4 million for an illegal total of $58.4 million. This violation follows in spite of the fact that Federal Election Commission Chairman David Mason did not grant McCain's Feb. 6 request to withdraw from public matching program.

Consequently, I, Helen Brantley, require that The Federal Election Committee officially investigate Arizona Senator John McCain of 241 Russell Senate Office Building, Washington D.C., 20510 for purposes of violations of FEC laws limiting campaign spending.

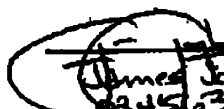

If you have any questions, you may contact me at telephone number _____.

Without Prejudice,

Helen Brantley

To Whomever Is Concerned,

According to the article written by Mathew Mosk of The Washington Post on March 21, 2008, (http://blog.washingtonpost.com/the-trail/2008/03/21/mccain_blow_by_public_spending.html) reports filed on the previous day (March 20, 2008) show that Sen. John McCain has officially broken the $54 million dollar spending limitation imposed by the presidential public financing system upon primary bid spending by $4.4 million for an illegal total of $58.4 million. This violation follows in spite of the fact that Federal Election Commission Chairman David Mason did not grant McCain's Feb. 6 request to withdraw from public matching program.

Consequently, I, John Oliver, require that The Federal Election Committee officially investigate Arizona Senator John McCain of 241 Russell Senate Office Building, Washington D.C., 20510 for purposes of violations of FEC laws limiting campaign spending.
